Judge concurs on need; questions city proposal

County Judge Woody Pond said this week he concurs with Canyon city commissioners that the city and county commissions should sit down and come up with a workable agreement on the sharing of services.

But, his idea of an agreement may not be the same as the idea city commissioners aired and approved last week.

Pond, who as county judge is chairman of commissioners court for the county, said he wants to see city and county leaders "sit down and come out with an agreement workable for both parties at least cost to the taxpayers."

Pond is not sure, though, that the city's proposed contract, which is to be given county commissioners in the near future, is the method for working out that agreement.

City commissioners Tuesday night approved presentation of a formal contract to county commissioners. The contract, drawn up by City Manager George Louder, calls for each governmental agency to pay the other for services rendered.

Under the contract proposal, the county would pay actual costs to the city for providing fire protection for rural areas, library service for rural areas and dump ground service for rural areas.

The contract calls for the city to pay actual costs to the county for providing jail facilities for city prisoners, and communication service for dispatching city policemen.

The most pressing problem Pond sees which needs agreement is fire protection for rural areas of the county. County commissioners are expected to discuss at their Monday meeting an agreement with the City of Amarillo and the City of Canyon for providing fire protection.

But, their agenda for Monday's session shows no other item which might call for discussion of the other services the city provides the county or services the county provides the city.

Pond said last week he favors an agreement which would continue the exchange of services now in effect for both governments. Currently, the City of Canyon provides fire protection and dump ground facilities at no charge to the county in exchange for jail facilities and communication facilities.

WT Buffs down Bulldogs in 1973 season opener

A fortuitous fumble here, a timely interception there and a handful of penalties were the only edge for the West Texas State University Buffaloes Saturday night as they handed Drake's Bulldogs their second loss of the season 13-10 in Kimbrough Stadium.

A near capacity crowd of 17,500 watched as the Buffs and the Bulldogs, who together are two parts of the 1972 Missouri Valley championship triumvirate, suffered from early season jitters which resulted in 17 penalties, 12 fumbles and only one intercepted pass.

The breaks were the game as the Bulldogs, defeated last week in their season opener, appeared to be in the same nervous state as the Buffaloes, who had their first outing of the season Saturday.

A touted Buffalo ground game materialized only sporadically while Drake had a tough time until midway through the second half of making anything jell except the running of hard-driving Jim O'Connor, a 205-pound junior fullback.

O'Connor seemed virtually invincible as he time and again blasted the Buffalo line for easy yardage. He was stopped cold only infrequently.

For the Buffs, the premier running back was Billy Pritchett, but Drake obviously had his number as he had as hard a time making headway as the Buffaloes had containing O'Connor.

A Drake kick-off into the endzone started Saturday night's game and the season for the Buffaloes and WT found the going tough through the first quarter of play.

The stanza ended with the Buffs in the midst of a seemingly sustained drive toward paydirt.

But only seconds into the second quarter, Rick Schleider scooted around left end and dropped the ball on the Drake 37. Drake recovered and took over only to see O'Connor fumble the ball just minutes later with WT's Walter Hibbler pouncing on the pigskin at the 32.

Before the fans could blink, WTSU had fumbled again, this time giving the ball to the Bulldogs on the Buffalo 28.

This time, the Bulldogs found themselves close enough to the goal line to make hay of the Buff error and moved in eight plays to the West Texas two-yard line. But, they had found some rough going once they penetrated the Buffalo six-yard line and the stalwart WTSU defense held, forcing the Bulldogs to kick a field goal to get onto the clock with 8:45 remaining in the half.

The Buffaloes took the ensuing kick-off and with the introduction into the game of junior college transfer Don Nava in the quarterback slot, West Texas found itself on the scoreboard four minutes later.

Nava threw the game open as he connected on several crucial pass plays during the series leading up to the first Buff score.

The Buffs moved from their own 36 to paydirt and Clois Burgess, taking advantage of field position hard won through the running of Pritchett, scooted two yards over left tackle to make the score.

Bruce Wyre kicked the extra point and WTSU led 7-3 with 4:37 remaining in the half.

Early in the third quarter, the Bulldogs made another serious challenge to Buffalo supremacy, driving from their own 20 to the one-yard line in 14 plays.

But, again the Buff defense proved impenetrable and the ball went over on downs to the West Texans.

After a brief turnover, the Buffs took over the ball on the Drake 47 to begin a short scoring drive.

Pritchett carried four times in eight plays and ran the final six yards over left tackle for the final Buffalo score.

With 3:27 on the third quarter clock, the Buffaloes led Drake 13-3 when a run attempt by Mike Lozano failed.

Drake, after a series of WTSU downs, took over possession in their final scoring drive with one second remaining in the third quarter. O'Connor plugged the speed in as he ran around right end from the Drake 38 to the WT 23 for a 39-yard run. A personal foul penalty against the Buffs put the ball on the 17.

Seven plays later, as the Buffs held and held, quarterback Mike Zelovich went one yard for the touchdown.

Drake threatened again late in the fourth quarter as they moved into another scoring position. But, the drive was blown apart when Daryl Carr intercepted a Zelovich pass on the WTSU 3-yard line.

The Buffs let the clock run out. In their first win of the season, the Buffs amassed 18 first downs, 254 yards rushing, 49 yards passing, for a total of 303 yards.

Drake made 20 first downs, had 230 yards rushing.

Committee will eye lake fate

A multitude of questions with few answers were bandied about by about 100 persons Thursday night at a townhall-type meeting to discuss the fate of Buffalo Lake.

The questions centered around what can be done to get water into the drying lake and what can be done to keep the lake open for all forms of recreation.

Formation of a seven-man committee to work on proposals to answer both questions was the upshot of the meeting. The committee consists of Mark McConathy of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, Woody Pond, Randall County Judge, Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the West Texas State University school of agriculture, Reeves Donnell of Canyon, Jack Barnett of Amarillo, Carroll

Wilson, editor of The Canyon News, and Daryl McKee, reporter for the Amarillo papers.

Basic purpose of the Thursday meeting was primarily to assess interest among area residents in pursuing courses of action to keep Buffalo Lake open and full of water.

But, representatives of various governmental agencies were also present and added their opinions to those of campers and fishermen who strongly supported a move to keep the lake open.

Wilson told the gathering that correspondence with Congressman Bob Price has indicated that the U.S. Department of Interior has as its ultimate goal the closing of Buffalo Lake to campers, hunters, picnickers and boaters.

He said Price had been informed of the Department's policy in various meetings.

He also noted that the Department may be amenable to relinquishing the property to another governmental agency for control.

Several of those present pointed out that at least two lakes in the Panhandle area — Lake McClellan and a lake near Dalhart — are maintained by county governments with recreational activities leased to a concessionaire.

"Why can't we do that with Buffalo Lake?" one man asked.

In fact during the meeting there was considerable interest in having Randall County assume title to the lake.

McConathy told those present he has been in contact with the Interior Department's Albuquerque office and that office has asked the PRPC to identify surplus federal lands which might be turned over to local units of government under President Nixon's Legacy of Parks program.

He said the PRPC has identified Buffalo Lake as a surplus area and has not yet received a reply from the Albuquerque office.

He also pledged the PRPC support to any effort for Buffalo Lake.

Pond said he will approach Randall County commissioners with the possibility of the county assuming control of the lake.

Dr. Smallwood told those present the university would also be interested in utilizing the lake (See BUFF, Page 5)

With speed, aerial accuracy Eagles hit inexperienced Lynx

It would be too simple to say revenge was the motivation of the Canyon Eagles as they took their first 1973 win 33-6 over the Spearman Lynx Friday night at Spearman.

But, however they took their victory, the revenge was sweet for a Canyon team which was beaten by the Spearman team in the initial season outing last year.

Friday night's story was one of mechanics. The Canyon Eagles worked together smoothly. The Spearman Lynx did not.

And, it was a case of experience and strength. Spearman lost all their starters from last fall and played a team with little field time.

Nevertheless, Canyon Coach

Ron Mills is hoping the Eagle victory set the morale tone for the season, a tone which the Eagles can maintain throughout their tough AAAA opponent schedule before district play begins.

The Eagles made their mark on the ground primarily Friday night as they chewed the Lynx line to pieces. And the CHS defense had little trouble stifling Spearman's running backs.

Gary Bednorz, a 155-pound senior, was spearhead runner for the Eagles as he continually blasted through holes in the Lynx forward wall.

Bednorz amassed 118 yards on his series of jaunts, which was cut short by the interspersing of a good number of reserves by Mills.

Ed Lair, experienced Eagle quarterback, nailed four pass completions out of 9 attempts for another 104 yards and a touchdown.

He also gained 36 yards on keeper plays.

In all, the Eagles tallied 241 yards rushing, 104 yards in the air and a total of 345 yards. They made 18 first downs and suffered only five penalties.

The Lynx, who barely made it beyond the line of scrimmage against the Eagle first team, made progress against CHS reserves but still made only 97 total yards, 73 in rushing and 24 through the air.

Canyon scored virtually each time it got the ball.

The initial score came with less than seven minutes gone from the scoreboard clock.

After a week series of downs by Spearman, the Eagles took over with 9 minutes showing on the first quarter clock. The Eagles travelled 47 yards in 10 plays for the touchdown.

Key runner of the series was Bednorz, who plugged up the middle for most of that yardage and went the final nine yards to paydirt with 5:35 left in the first stanza.

The Eagles scored again after a doomed Spearman series and went from their own 19 to paydirt in nine plays.

This time Bednorz teamed with Adrian Foil for end sweeps and a few plays up the middle for the primary thrust. Lair took the ball over from the 16 on a beautifully executed end sweep to the right.

With the scoreboard showing 11:01 remaining in the half, the Eagles led 14-0.

The Eagles got possession again with 8 minutes remaining in the half and travelled from the Spearman 42 to the touchdown line in seven plays.

Bednorz again drew most of the running assignments and he went over from the one yard line with 4:39 showing on the clock to make the score 21-0 in favor of CHS.

The half ended with the Lynx on the 21 yard line.

And, the second half opened with an explosive Eagle drive which took only three plays to score.

Starting from their own 38, the Eagles' quarterback Lair lobbed an aerial to Garre LaGrone who caught the ball on the 20 and scampered to score with 10:26 remaining in the third quarter.

The ball turned over rapidly and the Eagles had scored again (See EAGLES, Page 5)

Canyon weather again official as local firemen man gauges

Rain, wind, snow and 100-degree temperatures are official again in Canyon.

The Canyon Fire Department has assumed the responsibility as official U.S. Weather Service reporting station for the city. Formerly, the duties were handled by the geography department at West Texas State University.

Deputy Fire Chief Joe Rice said the WTSU department found it could no longer take care of the official weather reporting and the fire department was asked to become official observer.

All instruments are furnished for the new Canyon weathermen. One instrument measures the maximum temperature during the day, another measures the minimum temperature during the day and the current temperature, and another is a rain gauge.

Rice said the temperature readings are taken once each day — between 4:30 and 5:15 p.m.

The high and low temperatures for the 24-hour period and the amount of moisture are then telephoned to the U.S. Weather Service office in Amarillo, where it is put on a wire machine and sent to news media throughout the area.

In addition, the fire department observers maintain a daily log book of the high and low temperatures, moisture and other weather features.

At the end of each month the log book is sent to the service in Asheville, N.C., where it becomes part of a national statistical compilation.

Rice said the fire department decided to accept responsibility for the station because it "felt Canyon needed a place to continue official weather observing."

He said the city benefited in more ways than one from the deal.

"We're providing a service for them and they are for us," Rice said. "If we have unusual weather conditions coming in we can call them and get an up-to-the-minute radar report."

Rice said this up-to-the-minute report has not been available to the city in the past and can prove very valuable during the spring tornado season.

In addition, the fire department's assumption of the weather observing duties will allow The Canyon News to provide a new weekly feature to its readers.

Each Sunday, The News will run a small article listing the high temperature, low temperature and rainfall for the previous week with information provided by the fire department observers.

The weather report for last week:

Sat. Sept. 1 — high 92; low 63; rain trace

Sun. Sept. 2 — high 94; low 66; no rain

Mon. Sept. 3 — high 90; low 59; (See WEATHER, Page 5)

Highway to become worse, then better

Traffic on 23rd Street in Canyon is going to get worse before it gets better.

The Texas Highway Department is to begin work this week revamping the street from north city limit to south city limit to accommodate a new traffic control system approved last week by Canyon city commissioners.

And, for a few days, anyway, the traffic situation could be worse than it has been for congestion.

Police Chief Al Stewart said the Highway Department hopes to begin overlaying a new layer of asphalt on 23rd Street Monday. The street will also be restriped.

He said the department will probably work on two lanes of traffic while the other two lanes are open for north and south traffic movement.

While this may slow traffic (See HIGHWAY, Page 5)

Our World

Learning The 3 Rs

By ANN BROWN
There is an agreement among many American educators that students who attended the little red schoolhouse came out better educated than they do from our modern, highly structured schools. "Let's return," they say, "to that kind of simplicity."
So we have all kinds of experiments from "open" classrooms with several classes and teachers in one big room to several grade levels per room with only one teacher to teach all the subjects.
Our young educators seem to have missed an important facet of the red schoolhouse that only its students could explain: They did not learn because of those limitations — but in spite of them.

A few of the brighter young students with tremendous powers of concentration may have benefited from the recitations of the older students, but to the average child the distractions were frustrating and detrimental.
The one-room country school had three priceless assets, however, that current school systems lack. First of all they had a consciousness of God. Each school day began with prayer, Bible reading, or a hymn or patriotic song. Sometimes all three.

Almost all the students had parents who were more concerned about their children's welfare, education, and development than they were their own selfish desires.
The teachers were dedicated professionals whose goal was developing God-fearing, patriotic, morally responsible men and women while they imparted the basic academic skills to boys and girls. They didn't have to strike for higher wages or demand respect; they earned both.
And the God-fearing parents who employed the God-fearing teachers supported them all the way.
Sometimes a big strapping boy would try to give a lady teacher a bad time just because he was bigger than she was.
The teacher seldom found it necessary to complain to the parents, however. There were usually little brothers and sisters in the room who couldn't wait to get home to "tell."
When the big strapping father had finished with his son, he gave the teacher no more problems.
An 18-year-old girl with one year of college behind her went to teach in an isolated country school with 8 grades and between 40 and 50 pupils. She was barely 5 feet tall, and weighed less than a hundred pounds. More than half her students were bigger than she was, and a few were older.
That dainty little blond ran the school single handed for 3 years until she "retired" to marry the most eligible bachelor in the community. And she encountered no problems she couldn't handle.
In addition to teaching 8 grades the 3 R's, the teacher was responsible for firing the furnace, cleaning the building, keeping the "library," tending the grounds, and putting on frequent programs. All the work except the actual teaching, however, was done by the students. They vied for the privilege of doing any chore their teacher assigned.
The little school marm appeared as fragile as a china doll. But when that pretty pink and white face started turning red, every student out of line straightened up immediately.
The value of the one-room schools lay in responsible parents and dedicated teachers. Together they produced well-disciplined students. (Good discipline is essential to any kind of learning.)
Abandoning the private classroom for the old-fashioned "open" one, and discipline for permissiveness is about as practical as substituting the oxcart for the modern jet.
If we could reclaim the assets of the pioneer schools, they would be priceless. But since we have already thrown away the package, what profit is there in retrieving the wrapping?

County Will Eye Possible Take Over Of Buff Lake

The possibility of Randall County securing title to the Buffalo Lake Wildlife Refuge will be discussed Monday by county commissioners during their regular 1 p.m. meeting in the courthouse.
County Judge Woody Pond earlier this summer had suggested the county might consider taking over the lake. The possibility was also discussed at length last week during a townhall type meeting in Canyon.
Commissioners are also expected to discuss a fire protection contract with the City of Amarillo and the City of Canyon for fire service to rural areas outside the limits of both cities.
The county has not discussed contracts with the two cities recently and negotiation with the City of Canyon on fire service and other city- and county-provided services is expected to begin shortly.
Also on the agenda for Monday day is discussion of an agreement with Bill McMorries, Amarillo engineer, concerning consulting fees McMorries will charge to devise a set of specifications for county road construction in developments. The county has asked McMorries to prepare the specifications which will be given developers interested in later asking the county to assume maintenance responsibility for their roads.

An agreement between the county and the City of Amarillo for tax data furnished the county under its new computerized operation will also be discussed.
Glenn Dowlen, former commissioner and head of the Randall County Historical Survey Committee, will discuss funding for the committee with commissioners.
The 1974 budget will also be viewed and commissioners are expected to set a date for a public hearing on the budget proposal.

discussions will include a fire protection contract with the City of Amarillo and the City of Canyon for fire service to rural areas outside the limits of both cities.

Secrecy At City Hall

By CARROLL WILSON
Early last week, City Manager George Louderer unveiled the draft of a contract he wants to hand to Randall County commissioners as a negotiating tool to approach agreement on the services each governmental unit provides for the other.

Discussion of the contract was not on the regular commission agenda, but apparently commissioners had already seen copies of the contract prior to the meeting and were prepared to take some action.

After the meeting, I asked Louderer for a copy of the contract, specifically a copy of the contract discussed during the meeting.

Reluctantly, he handed over his copy of the draft.
To my surprise later that evening, when I opened the manilla folder to glance at the contract the first words to catch my eyes were typed and underlined in the upper left of the first and each succeeding page — "First Draft Confidential."

Obviously, Louderer wanted to keep the contract a secret until it was presented at the Tuesday night meeting.

Why did Louderer want to keep it a secret?

Much has been made in recent years of the propensity of the federal government to classify literally everything it touches into confidential, secret and top secret categories.

Recent congressional committee hearings have brought out the fact that while these three categories of classification are the only ones allowed by law, in fact the federal bureaucracy has come up with many other higher level classifications for information and documents.

The President, and to a lesser degree underlings in the federal government, point always when questioned about governmental secrecy to "national security."

In fact, national security can be the only legitimate reason for a government in this country to classify as secret public documents. It is reasonable for governments to keep secret certain personnel records.

But, it is not reasonable, not justifiable and not legal for a city government, which has no concern with national security, to classify documents.

The state legislature recently passed legislation which is in keeping with similar federal legislation stipulating that material which can be kept from public view and that material which must be open for public perusal.

The state legislature did not, however, pass any legislation outlining an elaborate classification or security system with various security ratings.

Louderer obviously wanted to keep the contract a secret from the people and primarily from the people through the press.

Several months ago, I was able to obtain a copy of Louderer's study on the services the city provides the county and the services the county provides the city. The study was critical of the equity involved in the current contract between the city and county on sharing of services.

Credit Union To Be Open

A representative of the Amarillo School Employees Credit Union, which also serves Canyon and West Texas State University, will operate a one-man, one-day-a-week office here beginning this week.

Ray Wilson of the credit union said he will be in Canyon from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Wednesday to handle credit union business for Canyon teachers and WTSU faculty members who belong to the credit union.

His office will be at 2201 4th Ave.

Whether there is any direct relationship between this incident and the resulting classification of the contract involved in the same area I don't know, I suspect there is.

My objection is that Louderer has no legal right to classify information.

My objection is specific. I object to any piece of paper in city hall bearing the label "confidential," or "secret," or "top secret."

It sounds like a picky objection, but it isn't. It has already been proven through congressional and media investigation that security classification has gone all out of control at the federal level.

Secrecy which is not demanded by law should not be tolerated on the local level any more than it should on the national level.

Secrecy is a threat to the very freedom of this country because secrecy can concentrate the power into the hands of the few.

While that may not be a legitimate fear in Canyon, Texas, it is legitimate to fear extra-legal avenues used to keep the people from knowing what's going on in their city.

Providing water for Buffalo Lake to remain a viable lake may be an impossible task.

Even if it proves impossible, it is still possible to do something to keep Buffalo Lake upon to the public for a wide variety of recreational activities.

While many propose that Randall County take over the entire 7500 acres of Buffalo Lake and the refuge, I question the wisdom

Actors To Present Readings Of Author

A group of actors under the sponsorship of Colony Catherine will present selections from one of the 40's more obscure authors on the West Texas State University campus Tuesday night (Sept. 11).

"A Brecht-Fest" is presented in platform reading style by Jim and Robin Goodhue, Neil Hawkins, and Wayne and Linda Hughes; all of Amarillo.

The one-hour reading includes selections from Bertholt Brecht's poetry, essays, and plays. One section of the performance is a cutting from one of Brecht's best-known works, "The Threepenny Opera."

Brecht was one of a number of dissident intellectuals who fled Nazi Germany as a wave of book burnings and witch hunts began.

He spent a majority of the war years in the United States writing anti-Nazi literature. Perhaps one of his best-known works in that vein is "Private Lives of the Master Race."

One of the most popular songs of the mid-60's was written by Bertholt Brecht. Few people associate Bobby Darin's hit "Mack the Knife" with Brecht.

The platform reading includes some rare recordings of Brecht's testimony before the House on Un-American Activities Committee in 1948 and a version of "Mack the Knife" as sung by Brecht.

The performance will be Tuesday night, 8:00 p.m. in the Student Activities Center game room on the university campus. There is no admission charge.

Actors Wayne Hughes and Robin Goodhue rehearse for their appearances in "A Brecht-Fest," scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the West Texas State University game room. The presentation will feature platform readings of works by Bertholt Brecht, including the German intellectual's little-known poems and essays.

Through the Looking-Glass

By ANN MELIN

It looks like a golden season for theatre this fall in Canyon. In dramatic offerings scheduled for performance at both Canyon High School and West Texas State University, there's something to suit the fancies of every theatergoer — be it comic opera, 17th Century French comedy, contemporary American drama, or Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals.

To open the season at Canyon High School, drama director Charles Wright has chosen Mary Chase's universally-beloved "Harvey," slated for performance Oct. 8-11.

In nice counterpoint to the whimsical comedy, the next CHS effort will be Arthur Miller's "All My Sons," scheduled for production Nov. 30, 31 and Dec. 1.

Another dramatic offering for the fall found its way onto the theatre calendar rather by accident. In informal conversation, Wright and two of his teaching colleagues discovered a shared admiration for Tennessee Williams' masterpiece, "Glass Menagerie."

One of the play's admirers, Carroll Killingsworth, then suggested that the teachers try their hand at staging a faculty production of the drama. Killingsworth, CHS counselor and speech instructor, offered to direct the performance, which is tentatively scheduled for November.

The third "Menagerie" fan, Ruth Holladay, secondary curriculum director in the Canyon schools, is looking forward to the chance to step into the role of Amanda, the Southern-born mother attempting to relive her girlhood days through her fragile, handicapped daughter.

Wright will portray Amanda's son, Tom, and Sara Hard will take on the role of the delicate keeper of the menagerie, Laura.

The role of the gentleman caller is due to be cast next week, Wright said.

Scheduled for the opening of the 1973-74 season at WT's Branding Iron Theatre are encore performances of Moliere's "Scapin," Robert Bolt's "A Man For All Seasons" and the modern comic opera "Sunday Excursion." The offerings will be presented in repertory production Oct. 3-7.

The Moliere comedy was presented this summer in a "Texas Originals" production directed by Nick Reid, technical director of "TEXAS" and a WTSU graduate. Members of the Paul Green musical-drama who returned to WT this fall will be reclaiming their roles in the French farce. Parts taken by non-WTSU students have been recast and WT drama director William A. Moore has polished direction a bit for the opening presentation.

"A Man For All Seasons" was presented last spring on campus as a directing project of Cindy Newman, WTSU graduate student. The decision to present the play again, this time in a full-scale production, came this week during rehearsals for "Scapin." Moore and his actors took time out to watch a special NBC presentation of "A Man For All Seasons" on television.

Hefley, Partner Win Another One

Canyon tennis standout Alexis Hefley came home last weekend with yet another trophy, this one from a second place win in the Tri-State Tennis Tournament in Amarillo.

Miss Hefley, a student at Canyon Junior High School, and her partner, Yvonne Berryhill of Amarillo, won second in the doubles event.

Miss Hefley and Miss Berryhill have entered seven tournaments this summer and won five trophies. Recently, they placed second in the state Texas Amateur Athletic Federation tournament in Waco.

Seasons" on Wednesday in the speech department television studios. After watching Paul Scofield's outstanding performance in the film, Moore and company decided to resurrect the play this fall.

"Sunday Excursion" was premiered at WT last year in a directing project of Rodney Miller, WTSU music major from Big Lake.

The comic opera will be the curtain-raiser for "Scapin" in performances slated at 8 p.m. Oct. 3 and 5 in the BIT. "Man For All Seasons" is scheduled for performances at 8 p.m. Oct. 4 and 6, and will share the bill with "Excursion" in a matinee performance at 2 p.m. Oct. 7.

"South Pacific," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical romance, is this year's WTSU Opera Workshop production. Production dates are Nov. 8-11 and 15-17 in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Claudia Stuart Reviews Year's Work At Canyon

At an age when most young people are musing over their future careers, 24-year-old Claudia Stuart sat in her small, poster-filled office this week reflecting over her year's accomplishments in establishing a Canyon office of Planned Parenthood.

Mrs. Stuart, a West Texas State University sociology graduate, left her post Friday as Canyon outreach worker to assume duties as health educator of the Panhandle Planned Parenthood Association, currently serving 24 counties in the region.

"Every child a wanted child" has been the social worker's goal in her work here. Posters and magazine clippings that cover the walls of her Randall County Courthouse office drive home the point. One of her favorites, she said, is a poster reading "Parenthood — Choice Not Chance." In a lighter vein, another poster depicts a morose-faced mother-to-be with the caption, "Love is never having to say 'oops'."

As a sociology student at WTSU, Mrs. Stuart said she was at first looking toward a career in child welfare.

"I was interested in children suffering from mistreatment," she said. "The way some people treat their kids... it just depresses me."

When I found out about Planned Parenthood, I thought its program provided a more positive outlook. If people don't know how to care for children, they should wait until they can better understand the meaning of parenthood, Mrs. Stuart said.

After a long uphill struggle to overcome criticism and misunderstanding about Planned Parenthood, Mrs. Stuart leaves the Canyon office with 325 current patients and a vigorous program of education, door-to-door outreach and efficient follow-up — a program largely shaped by the personality and philosophy of the pretty young wife and mother.

With only intermittent volunteer help, Mrs. Stuart has shouldered most of the work at the Canyon clinic herself.

Although its primary purpose is to aid women in family planning and birth control, Mrs. Stuart said that many people are not aware of other services provided at the clinic, including free testing for tuberculosis, anemia, pregnancy and venereal diseases.

"We also provide counseling services," she said. "Generally we counsel people with problems related to birth control and family planning. But problems can be related to more general things — like boy-girl relationships."

"I think many people have a misconception about what we're doing here. We're not just a pill-dispensing agency. We're not going out and teaching unmarried people birth control methods so they can become sexually active. That's not it. We're trying to teach responsibility," she said.

Asked what she regarded as one of her greatest accomplishments, Mrs. Stuart cited a case involving a married couple that "desperately wanted to have a child." Mrs. Stuart said she discovered that the clinic's normal operations of informing people on how to prevent unwanted pregnancies could be easily switched into reverse to provide people with information of the opposite nature.

In addition to its routine clinic work, the Canyon clinic has offered other "extra-curricular" services which Mrs. Stuart has added on to her regular work load.

Because many who come to counsel on family planning are often experiencing financial distress, Mrs. Stuart posts job availabilities on a bulletin board outside her office. The listings are provided by the Office of Economic Opportunity, which along with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, provides funding for Planned Parenthood.

In other cases, Mrs. Stuart has aided patients with problems

Nine Arrested Over Holiday

While Canyon had no major highway accidents over the Labor Day holiday, Chief of Police Al Stewart reported this week that the weekend was unusually busy.

He said nine persons were arrested, two for possession of marijuana, three for theft and four for drunk in public.

Stewart said he is unable to determine why the crime rate took a sudden upward curve over the holiday.

other than those covered by the family planning agency.

"Sometimes an indigent woman who comes in for birth control counseling will have children in need of medical treatment. In such a case, I'll usually refer her to a physician. And if she needs transportation to the doctor's office, I'll drive her to Amarillo, paying the mileage myself and making up office time late."

One of her first realizations about work in social services, Mrs. Stuart said, was that the job doesn't always fit tidily between the workday hours of eight and five o'clock.

"When I first applied for a job in social work, the people at the welfare office told me to always leave my work-related problems in the office when I went home in the evening... 'if you have to take a child away from its parents, don't feel bad about it; that night, don't sleep on it,' they said."

"But when a girl — unmarried, pregnant and perhaps suicidal — calls you up at midnight, what do you do? You can't tell her to wait and see you in the office at eight the next morning."

The nature of her work here has made for necessary adjustments at home. Mrs. Stuart is the wife of former WTSU linebacker Harold Stuart, who is now employed at United Transport, Inc. of Amarillo. The couple has one child, Dietra, age 3.

"At first Harold didn't like the idea of people calling up at dinnertime and late in the evening. But I told him that somebody's got to be doing this, and I'm the only one that's here to do it. Now he understands how important this is."

"After all, like I tell young girls, most sexual activity doesn't go on between eight and five. I let them know that they can talk to me anytime they need help."

Mrs. Stuart said that her intervention in crisis situations involving unstable, unwed mothers may have prevented the women from taking desperate action on their own.

In other cases, her counsel may have contributed to the saving of a life, she said.

When she first began an intensive door-to-door campaign to inform people about the clinic, she encountered one woman in serious need of medical treatment. After several more visits to the woman's home, Mrs. Stuart convinced her to come to the clinic for free testing. When tests showed abnormality, the woman was taken to the hospital where she underwent immediate surgery.

"The woman was my first big challenge. After her surgery, she'd come in often just to visit with me. I didn't mind, because part of my job is getting a follow-up on my patients."

One of the biggest inroads made by the Canyon clinic was the formation of a Patient Advisory Board last February.

The function of the board, which consists of seven community women, is to provide the clinic with ideas and plans on how Planned Parenthood can best serve the community.

Mrs. Stuart has also presented programs on Planned Parenthood to university students, high school students and church groups.

She particularly likes to meet with people on a one-to-one basis and answer their questions about the clinic.

"A lot of people call in here not knowing anything about our program other than hearsay. I like to get them in here and explain what we're all about. Then, if they have any criticisms of what we're doing, at least they'll be constructive ones."

"It takes time to convince people that we're here to serve the community," she said. "My philosophy has always been that society should take care of its own. I believe this. And I believe in what we're doing here."

Harry Chapin To Perform In Concert

The man whom Billboard Magazine claims will be setting the trend for the 1973 music scene is scheduled to appear in concert today at West Texas State University.

Late-blooming singer-poet Harry Chapin, whose hits include "Sniper" and "Other Love Songs," "Taxi," and "Heads and Tales," will perform at 8 p.m. in the Activities Center ballroom.

His performance is the season opener of a star-studded Student Activities Council concert series.

With groundings in the "wandering, fragmented, self-searching emotions" of the Fifties Beat Generation, Chapin sat out the era of high-decibel acid rock and only recently emerged into the spotlight with his brand of introspective, story-telling lyrics.

One of the college music scene's more seasoned performers, Chapin's singing career began after he'd experimented in the role of film-maker.

Working from the bottom up, Chapin variously packed film crates, edited film reels and finally broke into script-writing, directing and scoring. One of his 1969 efforts, "The Legendary Champions," was an Academy Award nominee and winner of New York and Atlanta Film Festi-tival Awards for best feature documentary.

With 300 films to his credit, Chapin turned his eyes toward a musical career, breaking into the business as a songwriter for an ABC children's show hosted by his brother. During his stint with the show, Chapin wrote 32 ditties based on one-word subjects featured on the program.

His hit tune, "Taxi" first prompted music critics to lend the harsh-voiced singer an ear. The premier recording was followed by the even more compelling, "Sniper," in which Chapin attempts to explore the dark recesses in the mind of mass-murderer Charles Whitman. The gripping work probes at the mentality and motivation of the man made infamous for the shotgun slayings of college students from atop the University of Texas Library tower.

His style, described by New

News Brief

Diana Claire Daugherty has entered Trinity University in San Antonio as a freshman. An honor student and 1973 graduate of Canyon High School, Claire is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Daugherty of Canyon.

York Times Billboard as "folk music with a contemporary overview and a complex musical syntax," is enhanced by a talented trio of backup performers.

In performances on late-night television, Chapin has often shifted the spotlight over to backup vocalist and bass guitarist John Wallace, whose voice encompasses a phenomenal octave range from high counter-tenor to bass. Other accompanists are Ron Palmer on acoustic-electric guitar and Tim Scott on cello.

Chapin was named as Billboard's "Trendsetter of the Year for 1973" for his work in "devising a storytelling style of music with a narrative impact rare in popular music."

Tickets for his WTSU appearance are priced at $1.50 for students with WT Identification Cards and $2 for the general public. Tickets will be on sale at the door, according to SAC program director Jim Holston.

Other attractions for the SAC concert series this fall include performances by Judy Lynn on Oct. 19, Ike and Tina Turner on Nov. 16, and Lobo on Dec. 12. In addition, Raun McKinnon will be featured Oct. 28 in SAC's New Artist Series, and a Moog Synthesizer Concert is slated Jan. 26.

Young 4-H Leaders Given Boost

By MRS. JULIA WHEELER

4-H Program Assistant BUDDING YOUNG 4-H

Leaders are now assured their efforts will not go unnoticed. Providing that assurance is Reader's Digest, new sponsor of the national 4-H leadership program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

As sponsor of the program, which recognizes leadership accomplishments at county, state and national levels, Reader's Digest offers a full schedule of awards arranged through the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

Up to four medals of honor are offered to deserving boys and girls in each county. The top young leader in each state receives an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress and there 12 national winners each receive a $600 educational scholarship.

Through the national 4-H leadership program young people are encouraged to take the opportunity to transform themselves into creative, inspiring, decisive persons. 4-Hers participating in the program assist in the formation of new clubs, help supervise 4-H activities, and younger members in their project work and as members of the Cooperative Extension Service in expanding the 4-H program.

Each year we consume an average of 244 pounds of meat, says the Cooperative Extension Service, nearly 50 pounds of that are poultry products.

Consumers are turning more and more to poultry as an economical meat staple to provide their families. Of course the 149,000 4-Hers enrolled in the national 4-H poultry program know how tasty, nutritious, and economical poultry can be. These 4-H poultry producers help provide the nearly 50 pounds of poultry meat we eat each year.

Encouraging these young poultry producers "to make their best better" is Kentucky Fried Chicken, donor of awards in the national 4-H poultry program. Members in the program learn the proper skills needed to raise healthy chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks and other poultry birds. Emphasis is also given to egg production and breeding.

In addition to the learning experiences in the 4-H poultry program, 4-Hers can also receive incentive and recognition awards, provided by Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Four medals of honor will be given to outstanding members in each county. A $50 U.S. Savings Bond will be awarded to the top 4-H members in the poultry program in each state.

Six scholarships of $700 each will be awarded to national winners in the 4-H poultry program, by Kentucky Fried Chicken, during the Congress.

To Eye Gas Hike Proposal

Rejuvenation appeared likely at week's end of the dormant West Texas Utilities Committee on the heels of a request by Pioneer Natural Gas Co. that monthly cost adjustments be instituted.

Canyon City Manager George Loudder, who along with Commissioner J. Pat Stephens attended a meeting of 20 cities Thursday night in Lubbock, said he believes the committee will be re-formed in an effort to ensure Pioneer's request is fair to the company as well as the customers.

He said he expects Canyon city commissioners to be asked in the near future to pass a resolution to allow Loudder to join with other cities in Pioneer's system to revitalize the committee to peruse Pioneer's request.

"No one is trying to keep Pioneer from making a fair return on their investment," Loudder said. "But, we do have the right to investigate."

Company officials approached the city commission here by letter requesting that they be allowed to adjust their costs which are passed along to customers on a monthly rather than an annual basis.

Currently, Pioneer is allowed paying," Pond said. "We can just exchange."

City Manager Loudder believes, after preparing a study earlier this summer, that paying for the services provided is the only way to agree.

Loudder's study indicated that on the current basis of exchange of services, the city is not being adequately compensated.

His study was the result of city commission action after county commissioners virtually refused to purchase a requested $33,000 new fire truck for the city, a truck city dads said was needed primarily to fight rural fires.

Pond conceded, however, that maybe the county needs to cooperate in helping pay for solid waste disposal at the city dump.

How much, and when, though is not expected to be decided this week.

Loudder is to present his contract to the county after polishing it and conferring with City Attorney Elton Cox.

He was instructed by commissioners to report back on the contract negotiations by early October.

to adjust its charges without commission approval based on cost actually incurred in purchasing gas in the field. This adjustment is now allowed annually in the spring.

Pioneer has asked that the company be allowed to pass along this cost monthly.

Pioneer officials have contended that annual cost adjustments are hurting them in the competitive market of finding and purchasing natural gas.

Loudder said 20 cities were represented at the Thursday night meeting.

A committee was formed to inform all 60 cities on the Pioneer system of the possible rejuvenation of the West Texas Utilities Committee and to work out mechanics of re-forming the committee.

Loudder said while he would reject the idea that the committee plans to "fight" Pioneer's request, he believes the request "important enough for cities that the cities have a responsibility to make sure this is a fair and just request by Pioneer."

The West Texas Utilities Committee was formed several years ago in response to a Pioneer gate rate hike request.

The cities on the system banded together at that time to investigate Pioneer's proposal and determine its equity.

Addressing the issue of how to get water into the lake, the 100 persons drew a virtual blank.

Pond outlined his idea of piping surplus water from a Lake Meredith pipeline east of Canyon 18 miles into the lake.

Dr. Fred Rathjen of Canyon questioned the legality of the dams and water pumps constructed on the Tierra Blanca Creek west of Buffalo Lake.

Several persons responded, however, that the dams and pumps were legal under certain circumstances.

First meeting of the committee formed at the meeting will be to determine the legality of the dams and pumps and to further pursue avenues for getting water into Buffalo Lake.

Second priority will be determining who might gain title to the lake.

First meeting of the committee will be Sept. 20.

along 23rd for perhaps as much as a week, Stewart and city commissioners believe the temporary problems will be well worth the new traffic system to be initiated when the overlaying and resurfacing is completed.

When completed, 23rd Street will still have four lanes of traffic — two northbound and two southbound. Parking will have been eliminated from city limit to city limit on the east side of the street.

The biggest change will be the initiation of a continuous left-turn lane down the center of the entire length of the street.

The continuous turn lane will begin at the Spur 48-23rd Street intersection and will run through town to 14th Street where 23rd Street splits and becomes a divided highway.

Stewart explained how the left-turn lane will work for motorists.

While left-turn signals will not be installed at this time to facilitate turning, cars which intend to turn left at any intersection with 23rd Street may do so by moving into the center lane and thus out of the two through traffic lanes.

Stewart warned that the continuous turn lane is not a traffic lane and citations will be issued motorists travelling in the lane without intention to turn. It is also not a passing lane, he stressed.

Motorists who wish to turn left, dress and voter registration number all be in the same handwriting.

This has the effect, Hutton said, of making it impossible for petition circulators to register a person to vote and then ask him to sign a petition. A voter registration number is assigned after the registration is turned in to the county and would therefore be at a time after the circulator signed up the potential petition signer.

Previously, circulators of petitions could register people to vote and at the same time get them to sign a petition. Then, the circulator would later fill in the voter registration number.

"This makes it much harder to get a petition to legalize or prohibit," Hutton said.

Big Brothers Needed Here For Program

Directors of Big Brothers of Canyon accepted Thursday afternoon the resignation of Clark Woodridge as consultant to the organization and began the search for a new consultant.

Woodridge, a professor of sociology at West Texas State University, resigned the position due to pressing duties at the university. He had served since last spring.

Big Brothers President Jim Ashford stressed that the Canyon office will remain open with an answering service referring calls until another consultant can be located.

Necessary screening and interviewing will be provided temporarily by the Big Brothers of Amarillo, according to executive director Don Pipes.

Pipes said Canyon currently has five little brothers on a waiting list for a matching big brother. He stressed the need for more potential big brothers.

Businessmen To Host Teachers

Canyon businessmen will roll out the welcome mat for new faculty members at West Texas State University and in the Canyon public school system on Sept. 22.

That's the date of the annual businessman-new faculty dinner, which this year will be at 7:30 p.m. at the WTSU cafeteria.

Traditionally, the chamber of commerce sponsored event calls for local businessmen to invite new faculty members to attend the dinner as their guests.

Chamber manager Roland Black is currently preparing lists of names of the 50 new faculty members in each system and matching the names with businessmen.

Spouses are invited to the dinner.

This year's dinner will feature no formal speeches.

Raymond Raillard, president of the chamber, will welcome the new faculty members to Canyon and will be emcee of the program.

Dr. James P. Cornette, chancellor of WTSU, will introduce Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins and his wife, themselves newcomers to the city. Dr. Watkins is new president of WTSU and is expected to respond to Raillard's welcome on behalf of the new WTSU faculty members.

Jerry Jacobs, superintendent of Canyon schools, is expected to respond to the welcome on behalf of the new public schools faculty.

The Lynx lone score came with 4:28 remaining in the game and climaxed an 11-play attack on the ground, with Mark Fox going 14 yards for the score. A pass attempt on the extra points failed.

Next Eagle foe is AAAA team Borger Bulldogs. The game will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Borger.

VOE Classes Launch Sale

The Vocational Office Education class at Canyon High School initiated their annual candy sale drive this week.

The two-week candy-selling campaign is a class fund-raising project for financing an "appreciation banquet" for Canyon businessmen who have supported the VOE program and provided on-the-job training for participating students. The banquet is scheduled for the spring.

Students will be going door-to-door throughout the city, and will be selling boxes and bars of candy to students and instructors at school.

The sales project was begun four years ago by the CHS Office Education Association, and has since become an annual event, said Georgia Lee, teacher and coordinator of VOE.

Last year's sales totalled about $240, and Mrs. Lee is hoping that this year's drive will meet or top that sum.

The candy is priced at $1 a box or 50 cents a bar. The selling campaign will continue through Sept. 19.

CHS principal John Sommer buys a box of candy from VOE students Sheila Thomason (left) and Debbie Zachary. Miss Thomason, who is employed at the Davis Agency, and Miss Zachary, who works in the office of Dan's Fifth Avenue, are among VOE students participating in a two-week candy-selling campaign.

Local Products To Be Displayed At Area Fair

Randall County fruit, vegetable, and field crop growers may show off their prize products at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo according to John Brazzil, County Extension Agent.

Brazzil says that a place has been reserved in the agriculture building for Randall County and that he will be glad to accept and display products grown in Randall County.

According to Brazzil the products should be mature, colorful, may be of an unusual size, shape, color or rare variety, and should be such that they may be displayed for a week at the fair without deteriorating.

The booth will be arranged by Brazzil on Saturday, Sept. 15 and all products should be ready for display by that time.

Individual products will not be judged nor will premium money be paid for individual exhibits.

People in Randall County who have such products should call the county agent at his court-house number, 655-3371, before Sept. 15.

Products which are still usable after the end of the fair will be returned to the grower by Brazzil if the producer wishes them returned.

PE Majors To Sponsor Orientation Breakfast

The West Texas State University Physical Education Major's Club will sponsor an orientation breakfast for prospective new members at 7 a.m. Thursday in the East Dining Hall.

Eligible for membership in the organization are all male students with PE majors or minors.

According to club reporter Dallas Alford, the PE Major's club has grown from "a manila folder and five sheets of paper" to an organization with a wide spectrum of activities offered throughout the year.

The Special Olympics, a program of physical activity for mentally and physically handicapped children, is an annual club project. The organization also hosts the bi-district basketball games.

Tentative plans for the year include club sponsorship of an amateur archery tournament on Oct. 3 at the WT Activities Center, said Alford. The group will also be active in projects for Homecoming Week on campus.

The club currently has 60 active members. Richard Ortiz of the WTSU men's PE faculty, is sponsor of the organization.

Current officers in the club are John Burkhardt, president; Joe Shields, vice-president; Don Fox, treasurer; Ted Trice, secretary; Roosevelt Jackson, sergeant-at-arms, and Alford.

Fall Line-Up Premiere Begins Week of September 10th

CHANNEL 7 ANNOUNCES NEW SHOWS

KVII-TV Programming "Better Than Ever"

The place to be again this fall is with ABC on Channel 7, Amarillo. With the introduction of exciting new shows starting the week of September 10 and the return of your old favorites, KVII-TV promises to be better than ever.

Outstanding new prime time programs include a wide range of entertainment for the whole family.

On Tuesday nights at 7 o'clock, beginning September 18, you'll be laughing at Paul Lynde who has joined the zany gang of cut-ups in "Temperatures Rising". He's the chief administrator of a private hospital for cosmetic surgery.

"Toma", on Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock, starting October 4, stars a brilliant young actor, Tony Musante, as a super-cop who relies on his wits, not his gun.

A light hearted series, "Adam's Rib", starts Friday, September 14, at 8:30 p.m. It pits a lovely lady defense lawyer against her prosecutor husband.

"Griff", which debuts Saturday, September 29, at 9:00 p.m., returns your old friend Lorne Greene to a regular series. He plays a dynamic private investigator.

"Box & Carol & Ted & Alice", Sundays 9:30 p.m., is a sparkling new comedy series with a new plot rated for the entire family, and will start September 30.

The Tuesday and Wednesday night "Movies of the Week" provide an innovative fare of mystery, suspense, adventure, comedy and drama. And, the ABC "Sunday Night Movies" include blockbusters such as AIRPORT.

Lots of Football Action This Fall on Channel 7

Thrills Galore in NCAA Games

The NFL schedule of thirteen games starts September 17 at 8:00 p.m. when the New York Jets meet the Green Bay Packers. Gifford, Meredith and Cosell will man the mikes again this year.

Chris Schenkel, Bud Wilkinson

and Duffy Daugherty are the ABC team for intercollegiate football. Air times for all NCAA games will be announced prior to the games. A partial schedule of dates is as follows: September 8, UCLA vs Nebraska; September 29, Notre Dame vs Purdue; October 13, Texas vs Oklahoma; November 22, Air Force vs Notre Dame and Alabama vs LSU; November 23, Nebraska vs Oklahoma and December 1, Army vs Navy.

PRO NEWS Staff of Professionals

Because of their expertise, experience and dedication, KVII-TV's staff of newscasters has become known as "The Professionals". Seated, left to right, are Jim Pratt, news director, and other members of the daily news team: Bill Zortman, Woody Van Dyke and Len Slesick. Second row, left to right, are Kelly Foss, assistant news director, and weekend newsmen

Joe Fields, Don Robbins, Dan Baker and Paul Matney. Back row, left to right, are Sandy Wright, reporter; Bedford Forrest, farm news director; and John McPherson who reports the news and weather on weekdays in the morning and at noon. In addition to this group, PRO NEWS has local reporters in various towns in the area.

Filmed News Reports Doubled on KVII-TV

Kelly Foss

Channel 7's increased use of filmed news reports has won the enthusiastic approval of viewers across the Golden Spread. They say "PRO NEWS is better than ever".

Another mobile unit has been added to the KVII-TV fleet and staff reporter's instructions are "don't spare the film when there is news to be covered". Also, cameras have been provided for use by Channel 7 reporters who live in towns throughout the viewing area. As a result, the amount of filmed news on KVII-TV has more than doubled in recent months.

Sound-on-film reporting by Channel 7's newsmen of much local news has brought a new dimension to PRO NEWS. Now you hear as well as see the action.

KVII-TV Still Claims Texas' Tallest Tower

Still unchallenged is Channel 7's claim to Texas' Tallest Tower.

The orange and white giant from which KVII-TV programs are broadcast is located above the Canadian River breaks northwest of Amarillo.

Towering 1,703 feet into the sky it is taller than the Empire State Building, the Eiffel Tower or the Statue of Liberty.

"To Tell The Truth" Moving to KVII-TV

Garry Moore

One of television's favorite fun programs, "To Tell the Truth," in color, is moving to Channel 7 on September 17th. The show will be featured on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday each week at 6:30 p.m.

Garry Moore plays host for thirty minutes of lighthearted entertainment with panelists Bill Cullen, Peggy Cass, Kitty Carlisle, and a host of revolving celebrity guest panelists, one for each week.

Easy-going Garry keeps things on the laugh-track while the panel matches wits with three contestants . . . each claiming to be the same person. Matching the right name with the right face is what it's all about, and you'll enjoy playing along with Garry and his panel of educated guessers from the world of show business.

"Reliability" Code of PRO NEWS Weather

Len Slesick

Len Slesick's twenty years of experience as a professional weatherman combined with KVII-TV's Constant Image Radar and modern receiving equipment give Channel 7 weather reports an authenticity which residents of this area have come to rely upon.

Channel 7's highly sensitive AVQ-10 radar complex scans an area 173 miles in all directions from Amarillo and portrays conditions from the earth's surface to the atmosphere. It projects a constant image of systems moving through the region so that details of threatening cloud formations can be carefully observed and accurately reported.

It is KVII-TV's policy to remain on the air when there is the threat of violent weather and keep residents advised continuously of changing conditions. During such periods local observers in towns throughout the area stand by to report on-the-spot developments by phone to Channel 7.

Forecasts are made from Slesick's personal evaluation of daily weather maps and information received hourly from the National Weather Service.
